Dear Anne:

Among thanks for sending the last draft of your manuscript. As I said some the time, I think you work with a marked improvement. Your conversation with Collins is, I think, very good from all standpoints.

Why don't you start over on the Belle story & your experiences in the war?

It is a story well worth the telling, and you certainly have the ability to do it.

Oh my kid had been D. L. T. told 25 hours steady driving straight for meals and then stops with granter trouble. Rain and snow most of the way. Plays - via through the mountains during much of the night.

Let me know if you get out this way. I'll say he heard words before I am in Washington again.

Best wishes to you all,

C. G. S.
